VIRGINIA CENTENNIAL RELICS.

Unpublished Autograph Letters of Washington, Monroe, Jefferson, Madison and Custis.

INTERESTING REVOLUTIONARY DOCUMENTS.

The Great Error of the Legislature Fully Demonstrated.

RICHMOND, March 22, 1876. It is a pity that Virginia, through the shortsighted policy and miserable penuriousness of her Legislature, will not be officially represented at the national Centions and historic relies that no other could have contributed so liberally in these respects to the great event to be celebrated on the 4th of July next. But, notwithstanding the refusal of her General Assembly to appropriate the pairry sum of $10,000 for the Ceniennial, Virginia will, nevertheless, be present in the persons of hundreds of thousands of her people, numbers of whom will carry with them Revplutionary documents and interesting relics of Washington, of Henry, Marshall, Monroe, Madison, Richard Henry Lee and others of her sons who were the foun' ders of American liberty. The evidences of this are seen every day in the innumerable mementoes, letters, portraits and articles once the property of some of the heroes of the Revolution, which are being brought out from the nooks and corners where they have long been hidden. The centennial year seems to inspire every-body down here with a patriotic desire to exhibit all the little curiosities and relics which have been so carefully preserved for nearly a century, and most of which so signally escaped destruction and loss during the late rebellion. I could mention hundreds of the most valuable historic mementos that I have seen which would awaken A PATRIOTIC THROB in the bosom of any American who sees them, and I bave often sincerely regretted that a special department could not have been assigned to the exhibition of the Virginia relics alone in the most prominent place in the Centennial Buildings. While in the rotunda of the Capitol building here the other day I was introduced to a member of the Legislature who had in his pocket a package of about 200 letters and documents of the period immediately succeeding the Revolution, and among them some letters written by Washington, Monroe, Jefferson, Madison and George Washington Park Custis. Being unable to obtain fac-similes, I was permitted to copy a few of these letters, which are mainly interesting as unpublished papers, and which give some insight into the private as well as the public affairs of these great men. The first is a letter written by Washington himself to Mr. Dandridge, which shows that the Father of his Country had a keen eye to seconomy. Like all others of his letters, it is in a round, bold, legible, neat handwriting. It is as followed.

DEAR SIR—Give the inclosed letters for Governor Jay and Dr. Priestly sale conveyance, but not by post, for this would be expensive for pamphlets, which I believe they are, from the Board of Agriculture, of which Sir John Sinclair is President. They came from him, with others, to me. I expect to leave this for Philadelphia on Monday, if all are well. Make inquiry for good footman. Yours, affectionately, Lieutenant Colone? Pickering knew that I was not able to write to him by the post of this day.

Mr. DANDRINGE.

The next letter is also one of George Washington's. the hox letter is any one of observe waningsons, it is in reference to the settlement of the "Colville state," of which he was the executor, and it would be well for executors of the present day to study how schippling the was of the property of others which had been intrusted to his care. Here it is:—

—I have duly received your letter of the 1st inst., eng Mr. Bennett's claim against Mr. Colville's estate, equesting to know when you can receive any part of loney.

Sile—tinace duly received your cited on the state, and requesting to know when you can receive any part of the money.

It is true that judgment was obtained against the assignees of John Semple for the debt due the extate of the late Colonel Colville; but I have been informed since that they either have applied or mean to apply to the light Court of Chancery for an injunction to stay execution until it is finally determined whether they are bolliged to pay the interest due on that debt or not (which in fact, was the rolly noint in dispute). If this is the case and whether it is or not Mr. Keith knows better than do) the matter is finely in the state of the sta wanting to effect this desirable end.

I am not able at present to go into any investigation of the particulars of Mr. Bennett's accounts, which you have enclosed, as all the papers, &c. relative to the deuts due to and from Colonel Colvelle's estate are in the hands of Mr. Reith, of Alexandria, to whom I must beg leave to refer you for information on the subject of your letter, and to request the favor of you to forward the enclosed letter to him, the purport of which is to desire that if an injunction is not in the way be will lose no time in settling the business with the assignces of Mr. Semple, in conformity to the judgment of the Court. With great esteem and regard, I am, sir, your most obedient servant, G. WASHINGTON, Colonel R. Hoan.

Among this collection is one letter (address lost) from ames Monroe, while Minister at Paris, which is of reat historic interest, as it refers to events trans-iring during the Revolution, as follows—

Paris, May 12, 1790.

Paris, May 12, 1790.

Dran Sin—There is endeavor of the kind you mention, with a right, however, in the direction to make exceptions to it, and I have written to the Minister to know what latitude will be given in the exercise of that right. I shall certainly obtain every indigence to my countrymen that the law and practice under it will admit and I can obtain, and, thope, so as to accommodate them all. With most exteem, sincerely I am yours.

Next is a latter of the great author of the Declaration of American Independence, in which he oncloses a of American Independence, in which he encloses a check for the payment of a debt which, until he was reminded of it, had "escaped his memory." It will be seen that he kept his funds in the United States Bank at the time:

Washington, Oct. 9, 1804.

Messrs. Robert Hoar & Co.:

It escaped my recollection until yesterday that it was the day on which my acceptance of Mr. Jarvis bill was become one. I now enclose you a check on the Bank of the United States at this place for its amount—$342. The pressuming the course of your transactions makes money in this bank as convenient as in Alexandria. If it does not, on asying so by return of post I will draw the money myself and remit it. Accept the assurance of my respect.

THOMAS JEFFERSON.

A memento of James Madison is found in an order from which it will be interred that that statesman was also a busbandman and was careful about paying tharges. It is as follows:—

Mr. Eno, the bearer, being authorized to select and re-eive the two ewes allotted for J. Madison by Mr. Jarvis, fr. Hoar will please turnish him with the opportunity. He sill pay the reight and other charges. Oct. 15, 1810.

their proceedings, hoping they will appear in such a light as to abolish every prejudice wherewith their ancestral enemies might attempt to inspire you.

And as the struggle will probably remain long undecided and of consequence the colonies be obliged to resert to foreign markets for a supply of military stores, as well as an infinite variety of other merchandise. I am further instructed to request that Your Excellency will continue to receive their ressels with heapitality into your ports and indulge them in trade on as liberal principles as the nature of the case will admit of. Such conduct, whilst it will be zenerously affording an opportunity to the injured of supplying their wants, Your Excellency must readily perceive will redound greatly to the advantage of your government, and may, perhaps, be an introduction to an extensive and beneficial commerce to the French Dominion, hitherto monopolized by Great Britain.

I now attend Your Excellency.

Sir, to return to Virginia on the —, and have the honor of being, with great respect, Your Excellency's very obedient, humble servant.

Brief presentation by the President of the Centential Commission, reporting the Exhibition to the President of the United States.

An address by the President of the United States, which he will close by declaring the Exhibition open. Immediately the flags will be unfurled, the artillery will fire a salute, the chimes of the tower and other great bells on the ground will ring and the chorus of 600 will render Handel's "Halleigjah," The foreign Commissioners will move to their respective assignments in the main building. The President of the United States, escorted by the commission and Board of Finance and the invited gnests, will enter the north doors of the main building and move, accompanied by the music of the great organs, along the great avenue in such manner as to pass by each national commission. The procession will then cross to Machinery Hall and walk down the main avenue to the centre. Then, at a signal from the President of the United States, the enormous engine and its thirteen acres of machinery will be put in motion, and the Exhibition will be open to the world.

There may follow more or less formal receptions in the Judges' Hall and the quarters of the Commission.

SUICIDE BY CARBOLIC ACID.

Ellison Richardson, aged forty-two years, living at No. 27 Bond street, committed suicide yesterday, while laboring under a fit of temporary insanity, by taking laboring under a fit of temporary insanity, by taking carbolic acid. He left his home on Wednesday and remained away until vesterday afternoon. On returning he lay down on the bed with his clothes on. His appearance was haggard. At five P. M. his wife entered the room, and, detecting the scent of carbolic acid, questioned him. He denied any knowledge of it, but she, believing that he had taken some, horried for a physician. When the latter strived the man was dead. On the mantel was a bottle half filled with the deadly fluid. Richardson was formerly a clerk in the Health Department. He lost his position a year ago, since which time he has done but little work. Despondency is believed to have been the cause of his committing the act.

and not having arrived at her port of destination at last accounts, it is feared that she has been lost.

Balthooff, Md., March 23—The Bussian bark Ensimalnen, Capt Autman, which had been detained at Quarantine since March 2, was reiensed yesterday. On the 5th of March she fell in with the Eritish brig Alice Abbott in a sinking condition, with the captain and steward dead and 3 of the remaining 6 men down with the smallpox. They were all transferred to the bark, kindly treated and brought to Baltimore. Besides the risk of having the disease on his vessel, the Russian was necessarily quarantined since the 10th. The item of expense for loss of time, &c., to the bark amonate to a vary considerable sum. The British government is not likely to allow the humane conduct of Capt Antman to result in pacuniary loss to the owner of his vessel.

Sax Praxicaco, March 15—The schr recently reported bottom up and ashore near Vaquina Bay, on Friday last, is generally supposed to be the Unde San, now out over 50 days from Wilmington, for one of our northern coust ports.

days from Wilmington, for one of our northern coast ports.

SWAMPROOFF, March 22—The position of the three juggers, Carrie Forrester, Minnehaha and Alberto Story, which were blown ashere during the gale of Tuesday, remains the same to-day. The Carrie Forrester did not go to pieces an Tuesday night, as was expected, but is still bumping against the Hamadord Rocks, with her keel gone and her sides steve in.
She will probably be a total loss. The Minnehaha is high and dry on King's Beach, as is also the Alberto Story. The latter is very little injured, but the former is damaged badly.
If the wind should again blow a gaie it is feared that both will go to pieces: but if the present weather continues both will be got off within a few days. The Flight, which went to pleces on the rocks off the Lincoln. House, was worth $2,500.
Serious accidents also happened to the Carrie Roberts and the Lucy Bowlin, which, aithough they remained at their moorings, were hadly damaged by collisions with the Carrie Porrester and Minnehabs.

Wilmanson, NG, March 23—The naknown schooner re-

Windows NC, March 21.—The maknown schooner re-ported usinore 22d into on the "Rip" on the Western Bar, is the Jac M. Fitspatrick, from Branswick, Gs. for Phila-delphia, with a cargo of lumber.
